Cyber-Bullying: Suggestions for Educators

- Educate your students, teachers, and other staff members about cyber-bullying, its dangers, and what to do if someone is cyber-bullied.

- Be sure that your school’s anti-bullying rules and policies address cyber-bullying. (AUP and Student Code of Conduct, Board Policies)

- Closely monitor students’ use of computers at school.

- Use filtering and tracking software on all computers, but don’t rely solely on this software to screen out cyber-bullying and other problematic online behavior.

- Investigate reports of cyber-bullying immediately. If cyber-bullying occurs through the school district’s Internet system, you are obligated to take action. If the cyber-bullying occurs off-campus, consider what actions you might take to help address the bullying:
  - Notify parents of victims and parents of cyber-bullies of known or suspected cyber-bullying.
  - Notify the police if the known or suspected cyber-bullying involves a threat.
  - Closely monitor the behavior of the affected students at school for possible bullying. Remember — cyber-bullying that occurs off-campus can travel like wildfire among your students and can affect how they behave and relate to each other at school.
  - Investigate to see if the victim(s) of cyber-bullying could use some support from a school counselor or school-based mental health professional.

Survey Says

- 85% of 13-17 year olds have social media accounts. Even cyber-bullying that happens on these sites away from school can affect the school day and educational process.
